2) DEBATE PORTION OF THE EVENING (30 minutes)

Two stand-up comedians are given a topical matter to debate, previously decided upon through the collaboration of the client and producer. One debater serves as advocate: the other takes the contrary view.

Off stage microphone – announcer intro of "The Debaters" live with the theme music of our show playing (from a CD or ipod).

Introduction - Steve Patterson, positioned between the two podiums, introduces the debate resolution, complete with insider references.

There are five rounds to each debate:

Opening Rants - Each debater delivers a fully scripted, joke-filled rant "for" or "against" the resolution.

The Bare Knuckle Round - Here debaters attack each other's argument and defend their own in a verbal free-for-all.

The Firing Line Round - The host quizzes the debaters on their knowledge of the subject, where the debaters can either provide the correct or the most amusing answer.

Audience Questions - This is a bonus round for Debaters Live! The audience members are given the opportunity quiz the debaters, using a wireless microphone that is passed around by a Stage Assistant.

The Last Laugh - The debaters each given a time for a closing summation, a final joke-filled scripted rant to sum up their side of the argument.

Conclusion - The host asks the audience to vote by applause for whom they thought delivered the best combination of facts and funny.
